

Cyber Guardian: Collaborating to Advance U.S. Interests in Cyberspace

December 5, 2012

Military Information Technology
November 2012

Army General Keith B. Alexander is the commander, U.S. Cyber Command (USCYBERCOM) and director, National Security Agency/chief, Central Security Service (NSA/CSS). As commander, USCYBERCOM, he is responsible for the operations and defense of Department of Defense computer networks. As director, NSA/chief, CSS, he is also responsible for providing national foreign intelligence, combat support, and U.S. national security information system protection.

...

Visit Military Information Technology to read the Q&A