

National Security Analysis & Intelligence Summer Seminar (NSAISS)

March 23, 2011

The Office of the Director of National Intelligence's (ODNI) National Security Analysis & Intelligence Summer Seminar (NSAISS) is now accepting applications through April 3 for a two-week residential summer program in Washington, D.C., July 10-22, 2011.

NSAISS participants will be introduced to the intelligence community and will interact with senior officials, intelligence analysts and experts through a curriculum of lectures, panels, case studies, and agency site visits. Program participants will receive accommodations, living expenses, and transportation to/from Washington D.C. and to all program activities.

Program participants must be US citizens and currently enrolled university graduate students or exceptional undergraduate seniors with proven plans for ongoing graduate study in Fall 2011.

Applications and further information regarding the program can be found at <http://www.ora.gov/nsaiss/>.

###