

Armed Proletarian Justice

OVERVIEW

AS OF MAY 2026

Armed Proletarian Justice is a Greek anarchist violent extremist group with anti-capitalist, anti-imperialist, and anti-Zionist ideologies. The group emerged in late 2023, when it claimed responsibility for a bombing attack, and since then has claimed responsibility for multiple attacks against government targets in Greece. Armed Proletarian Justice advocates for Greece's withdrawal from NATO, promotes violence against the Greek state, and conducts some attacks as a means of expressing solidarity with the cause of Palestinian independence and opposing the perceived formation of a police state in Greece.

Operating Area

Based in Southern Greece; conducts operations mainly in central Athens and the surrounding suburban areas

Members

At least four to six members, including at least one bombmaker

Tactics And Targets

Armed Proletarian Justice has used improvised explosive devices (IEDs) and has threatened to use firearms. The group primarily targets Greek Government infrastructure and personnel, particularly police. Group members typically notify media outlets before attacks, aiming to limit bystander casualties. Armed Proletarian Justice uses criminal activities, including bank robberies, to fund its operations.

Terrorist Group Designation

In November 2025, the US State Department designated Armed Proletarian Justice as a Specially Designated Global Terrorist entity and a foreign terrorist organization associated with the Antifa movement.

NOTABLE ATTACKS

31 October 2024

Ampelokipi, Athens, Greece

Armed Proletarian Justice is probably responsible for building a bomb that detonates prematurely in an apartment, killing one person and injuring another. The group probably intended to target a local law enforcement agency.

24 September 2024

Athens, Greece

Probable Armed Proletarian Justice members commit armed robbery at a bank, stealing 3,000 euros for the organization's "revolutionary fund."

18 December 2023

Goudi, Athens, Greece

Armed Proletarian Justice plants an IED outside the Greek Riot Police Headquarters. The group promises future attacks against police after warning media outlets about the planted bomb. Authorities then diffuse the bomb.

The mere advocacy of or presence in groups that advocate political or social positions, political activism, use of strong rhetoric, or generalized philosophical embrace of violent tactics does not necessarily constitute violent extremism and may be constitutionally protected. Such strong rhetoric and divisive terms should not be assumed to reflect or further violent extremist activity, absent additional information, and should be considered in the context of all applicable laws and policies regarding privacy, civil rights, and civil liberties.
