ODNI News Release No. 12-08

Conference to Explore Implications of New Technologies
For Open Source Analysis

Leaders from the intelligence and national security communities will join colleagues from business and academia on Sept. 11-12 for an on-the-record discussion of current trends in open source analysis.

The second annual Open Source Conference of the Office of the Director of National Intelligence will include sessions on how to best collect and analyze publicly available information – giving U.S. policymakers and partners advantages in making decisions. Other sessions will examine privacy and national security concerns in the use of public records, counterintelligence issues in open source, and the convergence of social networks and new technologies.

DETAILS

Speakers at the conference will include:

- Charles E. “Charlie” Allen, Undersecretary for Intelligence and Analysis, Department of Homeland Security
- Glenn A. Gaffney, Deputy Director of National Intelligence for Collection, Office of the Director of National Intelligence
- Michael V. Hayden, Director, Central Intelligence Agency
- Douglas J. Naquin, Director, Open Source Center, Office of the Director of National Intelligence

The conference will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sept. 11 and 12 at the Ronald Reagan Building and International Trade Center, 1300 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C.

REPORTERS

Reporters who wish to attend should contact the ODNI’s Public Affairs Office, and then register online by July 31. The registration form and more conference details are available at:
